BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION | CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The decision to pursue an undergraduate degree as an adult, whether starting or completing it, isn’t always simple. There are full-time jobs, families, and so many other responsibilities to consider. Rosemont’s School of Professional Studies offers flexibility and convenience in their accelerated undergraduate programs to address those challenges facing adult learners.

- Classes - one evening a week
- Five week classes
- Multiple start dates throughout the year
- On-campus, online, and Rosemont Downtown

The POWER of small is many things, including the ability to give our students a lot of personal attention.

- Average student/faculty ration: 8:1
- At Rosemont you are a name, never a number
- Student service professionals are on hand to assist you with the enrollment process

One aspect of the decision process revolves around affordability– "Can I afford to go back to school?" Rest assure that we have thought about that and are doing whatever we can to make a degree reachable for everyone. Our tuition is all inclusive– there are no hidden fees. We have financial aid and payment plans available, and we have partnerships with many Philadelphia employers in place to offer discounts to their employees. Students with prior college credit, military credit, professional licenses or certificates, or several years of work experience may be able to translate this experience directly into college credit.

Rosemont appreciates the life experience you have and are willing to share in the classroom. Students don't just learn from faculty. They learn from their classmates who add their professional experience to the material they cover each week.

Opportunities, connections, and an exceptionally personalized education from industry leaders is what the POWER of small is all about.
